

In-Step, Out-of-Step

Choose a volunteer. Tell him to do what you do and say what you say. His job is to follow you. Take some goofy steps, make a funny face, grunt or make a loud noise and jump in the air. He should do everything that you do. Then tell him that it's his turn to lead. But when he walks off...or whatever he does, turn and go the opposite way. Do your own thing. Did you follow Him? No. In the same way everybody in the room is either in-step with Jesus, following Him or out-of-step with Him, going their own way and doing their own thing. The difference isn't in what you say or what you believe or whether or not you go to church; the difference is seen in how you live. What you do, that's what you believe—everything else is just a bunch of religious talk.
