

No Roots, No Life

Take a fake plant and show it to your students. Choose a volunteer to smell it. Does it smell like a real flower? No. From a distant it might look real, but when you get closer, you realize that it's fake. There's no root. There's no real life.

Spiritual Application: Some Christians are just like this. From a distance, or perhaps just on Sunday mornings, they look "real." But when you get close to their lives, you'll realize that there's no real life there; there's no root; it's not real—it's fake.
