

SOMETIMES

Waterballoon Review Questions

Once each quarter give your students a review quiz. Call up volunteers who are willing to get wet one at a time. (NOTE: Please be sure not to choose girls wearing white shirts.) Have the volunteer sit in a chair. Dangle a waterballoon over his head and ask a review question. Take volunteers for the answers. If the answer is correct, pop the balloon. If it's wrong, give them a second chance. But if no one gets the answer, the volunteer goes away dry. For variety, use different kinds of balloons such as balloon animal balloons. (NOTE: For this kind of balloon, if you use a pair of scissors and clip the tip, it will shoot out water in a stream. Be sure to practice this beforehand, otherwise you might accidentally shoot students sitting nearby.) You can also use this activity each week for six or seven weeks, where you ask just one question each week instead of multiple questions.

